This video launches a Campaign of Kindness (USA)

☞ a challenge for all people to share kindnesses with others.

Small acts make a BIG difference, but ☞ the BIGGEST difference comes by doing kind acts for strangers— people you don't know, people different than you, people with different backgrounds and even beliefs.

Complete ten acts of kindness. These acts don't necessarily have to be documented, as they can range from something as simple as holding the door open for a stranger to as elaborate as you want to make them. Once you have completed the ten acts of kindness, complete and submit the form here.

The STEAM Teacher

Opublikowany 31 sie 2016

In this simple book, the author begins by helping children see that when they are sick, hurt, or unhappy, others care about them. Children can then begin to see that others need to be cared about as well.

He reads aloud and talks about the moral of the story

Bad Date – You are out on a date with a new person. You can sense that the date is going to be a disaster. You are not sure whether you should make up an excuse to leave or stick it out.

Smells – One of your coworkers dresses well but wears far too much cologne. Another smells as if he doesn't shower at all. When both odors are mixed together, you can hardly breathe.

Facebook – Your aunt wants to add you as a ‘friend’ on Facebook. You don’t really want family invading your online social life. But, you know she’d be upset if you refused her request.

Lessons on how to be tactful

Speaking Activities / Role Plays

(fragments)

<https://www.englishcurrent.com/roleplays/tact-speaking-roleplay-esl/>

How to say sth critical in a way that respects the feelings of others
e.g. Working on the strategies to make sentences more tactful

➡ Your perfume is too strong.

➡ I don't want to waste my time talking with you. I have more important things to do.

➡ This has waaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaay too much salt.

Being tactful (lesson fragments)

Study the sentences and pay attention to the adjectives in bold. Use a dictionary if possible.

-  Calling her 'fat' was very offensive.
-  Don't be so rude! Say 'thank you' when you are given a present.
-  I'll be blunt – you need to lose weight!
-  Mark always uses very unpleasant words and gestures when he speaks. He is very vulgar.
-  Masa always opens doors for other people. He is very respectful.
-  Sam is very polite. He always says "please", "thank you", "you're welcome."

Tactful language

Study the dialogues and sentences below.

Notice how the expressions in bold are used to say things more carefully so that you don't offend or upset someone

Speaking your mind 2

Emma: Mark, I've decided. I'm going to take my driving test next week.

Mark: Next week? Don't you think you need a bit more time?

Emma: What do you mean?

Mark: Well, I don't mean to be rude, but I've seen your driving. You're just not ready yet.

Helping people (level: intermediate)

Offering and refusing help

00:00|00:00

A: I can help you with your homework if you like.

B: No thanks, I think I can manage.

00:00|00:00

A: Shall I answer the phone?

B: No thanks, it's all right.

For teenagers 'The other side of the story'

pixabay.com (access date:18.09.2017)

It's easy to judge others ...
especially when you don't know their side of the story

- Students read a text about a problematic situation

Example:

John was ill and had to borrow some copybooks from a classmate.

David lent him the copybooks but only for 1 day. The next day he needed them at school but John didn't return them. He didn't come to school or answer the phone.

David got furious.....

Try to figure out the other side of the story.

- In groups ss try to figure out any possible explanations
the other side of the story

- They write them all down
- The winner  the group with the longest list of explanations

Then each group transfers their sentences into grammatical constructions given by the teacher:

e.g.

John's little sister could have damaged the copybooks.

Maybe he's had an accident.

Speaking

In pairs

students use these possible explanations

to create a short dialogue between David (angry) and Sandra (a classmate).

Sandra tries to calm him down

by giving the possible explanations for John's behaviour.

What do these activities teach students?

Ask them: 'What have you learnt?'

What do these activities teach students?

- empathy and perspective-taking ability
= the ability to figure out how sb might be thinking or feeling
- justice, compassion, and caring

Moral functioning can be fostered by providing the kinds of experiences that promote it.

'RESPECT YOURSELF AND YOUR BODY AND PEOPLE WILL RESPECT YOU'

PRE-LISTENING:

1) Describe the picture

2) Divide your students into 2 groups – male and female. Give each group a couple of questions:

Boys

1. When you're at the disco/club/pub

- do you search for a nice girl with the intention of a relationship or...

- do you hunt for some physical pleasure (one-night stand)?

2. What is usually the difference between your behavior 'tonight' and 'tomorrow'?

(treating the girl "tonight"=at the party and your attitude towards her "tomorrow"= the next day when the party is over)

Girls	1. How can you guess if the boy you meet at the disco/club/pub <ul style="list-style-type: none">- is interested in you as his future girlfriend or...- hunts for some physical pleasure (one-night stand)? 2. What can be the difference between his behavior 'tonight' and 'tomorrow'?
-------	---

Mix the groups to let the boys and girls share their opinions in a short discussion.
